

Campgrounds FAQs

1. How are campgrounds in Wisconsin affected by the Elevator Program?

Answer: Only commercial type conveyances may be installed in campground structures covered by the commercial building code and common areas of a campground. A conveyance shared by two or more one- or two-family dwellings is considered to be in a common area therefore must be a commercial type conveyance.

These conveyances include typical passenger or freight elevators, outdoor inclined elevators (often called "trams"), limited use/limited application (LULA) elevators, escalators and moving walks, dumbwaiters, type B material lifts, vertical platform lifts, inclined platform lifts and stairway chair lifts.

One- and two-family dwellings covered by the uniform dwelling code in campgrounds may utilize either commercial type conveyances or residential type conveyances.
